

Blueberry Coalition for Progress & Health Statement on Bicameral, Bipartisan Congressional Letter Opposing Section 201 Investigation into Fresh/Frozen Blueberries

Washington, D.C. (January 11, 2021) – “The Blueberry Coalition for Progress and Health strongly commends Senators Sinema (D-AZ) and Moran (R-KS) and Representatives Cuellar (D-TX) and Schweikert (R-AZ) for leading a bipartisan, bicameral letter raising significant concerns with the Trump Administration’s Section 201 investigation on imported blueberries and Section 332 investigations of imported strawberries, bell peppers, squash, and cucumbers.

The letter follows a letter signed by nearly three dozen food and agriculture organizations challenging USTR’s actions.

We join this bipartisan group of policy makers in supporting cross-border trade with our top trading partners, and the desire to avoid restrictions and tariffs on products U.S. consumers are demanding year-round.”

The Blueberry Coalition for Progress & Health is a broad cross-section of the U.S. blueberry industry – including domestic growers and shippers as well as importers and retailers – formed to oppose limitations on blueberry imports, including the recently initiated Section 201 investigation on blueberries. To learn more about the Blueberry Coalition for Progress & Health, visit us here.

Press contact: Frances Dillard, press@blueberrycoalition.com